

Paolo Gontero

San Giovanni Battista (Molinette) Hospital - University of Turin
School of Medicine, Turin, Italy

Paolo Gontero holds the position of Full Professor of Urology at the University of Torino School of Medicine and since 2016 has been appointed as Chairman of the Division of Urology, San Giovanni Battista Hospital (Molinette), Torino, Italy.

His main clinical interests are in the field of Surgical Uro-Oncology, devoted to Robotic and Laparoscopic oncological surgery of prostate, kidney and bladder cancers. He has expertise in minimally invasive live donor nephrectomy and reconstructive surgery of transplanted kidney.

He has authored and co-authored more than 450 publications on international journals with his main research interests pertaining the development of new treatment modalities for non-muscle invasive bladder cancer and prostate cancer. He is involved in international trials and working groups on the development of new diagnostic and therapeutic modalities for prostate and bladder cancer. He is currently Chair of the European Guidelines for non-muscle invasive bladder and of the European Guidelines for upper urinary tract urothelial cell carcinoma, and holds membership of the IBCN. He is also member of the Journal of Urology Editorial Board.